Photographing the School!!

Oh~ I know my limits. Backgrounds have always been my weakness (to be frank I like to draw characters more). Of course, I choose the schools near my place (because I walk). It was a holiday when I went into the school, so there weren't many people. There were only a few guys playing basketball. I did go to the security room (I guess that's the name?), but there was no one, except for the security camera. So I thought "okay then, I will take some photos", and started photographing the exterior. When I entered a classroom, an old man (I guess he was the security guard) asked me what I was doing (kinda angrily...) and I sheepishly answered taking photos for drawing. After that the old man just let me take pictures of the classrooms from afar, kinda far (he did not let me take photos near the classroom).
